Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, then add pints granulated sugar, or strained honey to make a full pint. This makes two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex! It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Judge Considers Protests In Abandonment of Trolley Line

Cleveland Line Control Hit at Hearing in Court

Attorney Says Line Would Not Lose Money Under Proper Operating Conditions; 250 Would Be Thrown Out of Work, Affect 1,500 Others, Court Told.

By The Associated Press. CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 29.—A protest against proposed abandonment of services on the Cleveland Southwestern Railway & Light Co., which serves a number of northern Ohio cities, was being considered by Federal Judge Samuel H. West today.

Claims that discontinuance of the line would throw 250 employees out of work and directly affect 1,500 persons were heard by Judge West late yesterday from John K. Nee, Cleveland attorney, and R. E. Gillmore of Bucyrus, representing employees. Written protests also were received from A. E. Keim, owner of a Mansfield terminal, and the First Wellington bank of Wellington.

Nee argued the line would not lose money if it had not sold everything but the rails, cars and trolley lines to the Reserve Power & Light Co. of Elkhart. He contended that the same group of men own the railway, the Reserve company, which supplies it with gas, and the competing Elkhart Gas Co.; the railway carried freight, especially poles, for the light company without charge; and that the bus company operates diverted business from the railway to the buses.

Another charge made by the employees was that the railway paid 90 per cent of the wages of a number of maintenance men employed by the railway, the bus company and the Reserve company.

C. J. Meyers of Cleveland, former vice president who is now receiver for the railway, denied the charges in the protests. He said that only a small amount of freight was hauled for the power company and that it was paid for. He asserted there were only 15 maintenance employees working jointly for the railway, the buses and the power company, and that their total salary was $14,000, of which only $2,800 was paid by the railway.

The railway received $2,087,165 for the properties sold to the Reserve company, Meyers said, and Mrs. E. B. Kurtz welcomed the members of the Winadana club and a few guests at her home on West Findlay street Tuesday afternoon. The afternoon was spent with needlework and roll call was responded to with current events. Dinner was served. Mrs. A. H. Kemelie, Mrs. Gertrude Kurtz, Mrs. Margaret Dow, Mrs. Gill Kurtz and Mrs. Howard Wender were guests of the club. Mrs. H. S. Keller will entertain the club in two weeks at a luncheon at 1 p. m.

Mrs. W. R. Allen entertained her bridge club Tuesday evening at her home on East Findlay street. Prizes were won by Mrs. Samuel Gunther and Mrs. Chester Chapman. Mrs. Russell Zela will be the next hostess.

Mrs. W. L. Aromholt and Mrs. W. S. Huffman entertained the Teachers' Bridge club Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Aromholt of North street. Miss Mildred Gunther won the prize in the bridge games and Miss Ruth Grove in the ruck.

HEALTH BOARD GIVEN $4,000

Morrow County Work May Be Hampered as Result of Lack of Funds.

Special to The Star. MT. GILEAD, Jan. 29.—The Morrow county board of health may be handicapped in the regular work of the board this year as a result of lack of funds necessary to carry out the outlined program. The county budget commission approved an appropriation of $4,000 for the department this year which is exactly the same was allowed in 1930. In submitting their estimate of necessary expenses to the commission this year the board asked for a total of $8,500.

The department is not dependent entirely on the county funds as approximately $2,600 will be received from state funds. In addition to the work of examining all the school children in the county and recommending measures for the correction of physical defects the department endeavors to foster correct health habits among the pupils. Another phase of the work is the prevention of the spread of all communicable diseases.

Whether sufficient funds will be available for the continuance of the county nurse has not yet been determined. Department officials state. The expenses of the nurse have been taken care of mostly through Red Cross and Christmas Seal funds in the past year.

The budget prepared by the board includes the sum of $5,000 for salaries; office and medical supplies and equipment, $450; board members' expenses, $250; nurse transportation and supplies, $750; other, $1,000; and emergency, $100, total, $8,500.

Singer of Blues Will Be Guest on Vallee Program

BY GILSON WRIGHT

RUDY VALLEE will present Marian Harris, noted crooner and blues singer, as guest star when he and his Connecticut Yankees make their first appearance in many months at the Times Square Studios of the National Broadcasting Company Thursday at 8 p. m. over station W.E.A.F. and a large NBC network.

Miss Harris, who by the way is the great-granddaughter of a past President of the United States, Benjamin Harrison, gives "blues" songs the hallmark of perfection. She acquired a vaudeville reputation as being one of the best drawing cards of the two-day before she went into a musical comedy. Her work there in such productions as "Goodbye, Lady" and "The Second Little Show" made her one of the most prominent of musical comedy stars.

Rudy and his band are heard in a program of dance tunes evenly divided between old favorites and new Broadway hits. The couple leader will be heard as soloist in most of the numbers he had with him.

Julia Sanderson, soprano, and Frank Crumit, novelty vocalist, will present a program of popular selections during the "Plantation Broadcast" to be heard over a NBC-WJZ network Thursday at 9 p. m.

A program of hits from Sigmund Romberg's outstanding musical shows will be presented by an orchestra under the direction of Don Voorhees, with Frank Parker, tenor, over an NBC network Thursday at 9:30 p. m.

A dramatic sketch based on the first railroad train in New York State—the DeWitt Clinton—will be presented during the Niagara-Hudson Program over stations associated with NBC Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

The International Singers, famous operatic quartet, will be the guest artists of the Melody Moments to be broadcast over stations associated with NBC Thursday at 9:30 p. m.

Melancholy and joyful tunes alternate the program to be presented by the Jesters, a male trio, over an NBC network Thursday at 7:15 p. m.

Robert "Bobbie" Burns, whom every Scotchman regards with a deep personal love, will be the dramatized guest of honor at the Birthday Party which will be broadcast over an NBC network Thursday at 9 p. m.

Fred Waldner, tenor, will be the featured soloist on the Footnotes program to be broadcast from NBC's Chicago Studios Thursday at 7:45 p. m.

A tone picture of the Lord's Prayer, illustrated by well known hymns, will be presented during the Mid-Week Federation Hymn Sing to be broadcast over an NBC network Thursday at 7 p. m.

Allie Genge, soprano; Theodore Webb, baritone, and a concert orchestra under the direction of Harold Sanford, will be heard in the program. Echoes of the Orient, to be broadcast over an NBC network Thursday at 10 p. m.

"Ten Minutes To Live," a tense melodrama about a young bank teller who is convicted of murder on circumstantial evidence, will be presented during the Watchman Program Thursday at 8:45 p. m. through Station WABC. The playlet emphasizes the point that time, which is always important, frequently becomes a vital factor.

"Fin Wheel Gallop," a xylophone solo by George Carey, will be the high light on the concert by the Armo band at station WLW Wednesday at 9 p. m.

Woman, 34, Is Denver's Youngest Grandmother

DENVER—Mrs. Faye Dutton, 34, believes she is Denver's youngest grandmother.

Leon Stanley Coulter recently became Mrs. Dutton's first grandchild. Leon's mother is Mrs. Marie Dutton Coulter, 16, a daughter of Mrs. Dutton.

"Early marriage," Mrs. Dutton said, "is a family trait. I was 18 years old, too, when I married little Leon Stanley's grandfather in Brush, Colo."

COLLEGE PRESIDENT DEFENDS ATHLETICS

HEAD OF OGLETHORPE UNIVERSITY FAVORS AID FOR ATHLETES

Believes System of Management to Blame for Any Existing Evils.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 29.—The trouble with football is a vicious system of management rather than the granting of scholarships in the opinion of Dr. Thorne Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe university.

"The fault lies in the vicious system of allowing alumni students and outside business men to operate and control the athletic programs. Consequent lack of interest in and authority over athletics by the college faculties is at the bottom of all so-called evils of the game," Dr. Jacobs believes.

"There schools would not consider turning over the operation of their chemistry department to students and alumni, but, evidently, think nothing of placing one of the most important and most popular departments in their hands."

The department of physical culture, including intercollegiate and intra-mural sports, should come under the faculties the same as any other class of subject, with the coach having direct supervision.

D. Jacobs favors the awarding of self-help scholarships to students, athletes or non-athletes, who need aid to finance their way through school.

UPHOLDS COLLEGE SPORTS

President of Yale Scores Alleged Danger of Gate Receipts.

By The Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—That gate receipts, large or small, are quite all right for college football so long as they are properly administered, in the opinion of President James Rowland Angell of Yale, Yale does not expect to ask her alumni to endow athletics.

President Angell told the representatives attending the annual meeting of the Yale alumni unit, "intercollegiate games," he said, "should be carried on within the bounds of such reasonable expenditures as can be provided by the participants or by special gifts, or by sales of tickets to witness the contests. Despite abuses which have grown up at some institutions, as the result of the huge gate receipts for football, these abuses are being rapidly corrected, and the money is now generally used for proper purposes, such as the development of intramural sports."

BOYS WIN 34 TO 30, GIRLS BEATEN 30-26 IN EXCITING GAMES

Both Games Hard-Fought; Fouls Numerous in Final Contest of Program.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK Sports Editor, The Star

Waldo and Claridon High school cage outfits split a double court bill last night on the Waldo floor, the Claridon girls winning 20 to 26 and the Waldo boys 34 to 30. The bill was a playoff of the games originally scheduled for Jan. 8.

Claridon's girls jumped into the lead at the start of the game and held it for most of the game. Waldo was unable to check the scoring antics of the opposing forwards, allowing Retterer and Kramer to slip through for four field goals and a free throw each during the game. Claridon center also tallied three goals and dropped in a half dozen charity tosses. Technical fouls were numerous.

The boys game was a battle royal from start to finish although Waldo held a decided advantage all during the first half. Paced by a former Harding High student, Carol Caris, the crimson horde of Waldo swept aside the Claridon opposition in the first half to take a one-sided advantage by mid-game time. The passwork of both teams was rather erratic during the opening half.

In the second half the Claridon offense began to click and Waldo found the going increasingly rough. Claridon hammered away at Waldo until the score was finally decided at 21-21 in the final period. After taking time out to map out a defense, Waldo again clicked and took the lead after a furious battle.

Plenty of Fouls Personal fouls were numerous throughout the boys game, a total of 24 being charged against Waldo and 10 being credited to Claridon players.

Conklin, Gerfen and Cleveland all went to the showers before the conclusion with a quartet of violations and Ruth went the bench via the same route for Claridon. The victory of the Claridon girls allows them to retain their claim to the eastern half of the county circuit with a net score of 800. The Waldo girls are now in fourth place with 333 per cent.

Waldo boys are now in a tie for the top post with 666 per cent while the Claridon boys are trailing the circuit with a 200 per cent mark.

ANOTHER SNAG!

Obstacle—Littered Fight Path Has Now Difficulty to Face.

By The Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Chicago is all in favor of holding next summer's heavyweight championship battle between Max Schmelling and Young Bill Stribling, says George Getz, a member of the Illinois Athletic Commission, but not if the millrind or any New York champion is to share in the proceeds. Addressing his remarks to an informal gathering that included Schmelling, his manager, Joe Jacobs, and Bill Carey, president of the Madison Square Garden corporation, Getz added this complication to the fight plans yesterday, explaining that "charity begins at home and Chicago needs all the charity it can get." The mill fund has been carrying on the negotiations for the fight.

Ranger-Bruin Clash Tops Hockey Schedule

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Although there are three games in the national hockey league schedule for tonight, the fifth clash of the year between the New York Rangers and Boston Bruins at Madison Square garden casts a shadow over the meeting of the Canadian Division leaders and the last place teams of the two divisions.

Many fans think the time is about ripe for the Rangers to beat Boston, a feat which has not been accomplished in more than two years.

The "Shocking Seconds"

Wittenberg's "Shocking Seconds" who have figured in every game this season are real pace setters, and have frequently worn down opposing teams so that Wittenberg's first team could walk away with victory.

This second string outfit has helped to win twelve straight college victories this season, including triumphs over U. of Alabama, Lehigh, Brigham Young, and Mount Union, a team that has been leading the Ohio conference.

Shakeup in Standings Due Friday in County League

Quite an upheaval in the standings in the basketball race of the Marion county cage league is expected when the results of Friday night games of this week are reported. At least one argument for first place will be decided.

In the eastern section double bills will be presented at Waldo and Martel with Caledonia and Claridon as the visiting aggregations. Boys and girls teams will play at both places.

In the western section, Pleasant will journey to LaRue for a two way program and Prospect will clash with Green Camp on the latter's home floor.

The engagement between the Caledonia and Waldo boys will settle for at least a week who is going to occupy first place in the eastern section. Martel however, will be able to better its way to a post with the top-notchers with a victory over the Claridon cagers.

The Waldo-Caledonia game should be close with neither team having much of a pre-game advantage. The girls teams between these two schools have little to choose between. Neither has shown particular strength this season.

The Pleasant boys and girls will both be favored to hand LaRue's last place outfits another beating. The Pleasant girls in particular should be able to run up a big score on the LaRue but the boys may have to work harder to win their game.

On the basis of previous showings, Prospect will be a slight favorite to defeat the Green Camp boys while there is nothing on which to base a choice between the girls teams of the two towns.

Two schools, Moral in the Eastern division and Kirkpatrick in the Western will not engage in league competition this week.

RAY CONGER DEFEATS SWISS SPEEDSTER IN INAUGURATION RACE

Dr. Paul Martin Unable To Match Strides With Illinois A. C. Star.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 29.—The band player the Star, Spanked Banner and then Ray Conger stepped out and won the first international race of the indoor track season, defeating Dr. Paul Martin of Switzerland.

The band played the Swiss national anthem too at the Newark A. C. track games last night but it takes more than a song to win a foot-race from the boyish looking star of the Illinois Athletic club, America's premier middle distance runner.

Dr. Martin, making his first appearance of the winter and only off the boat a little more than a week, made a gritty effort to stay with Conger and beat him to the tape in the 1,000 yard struggle as he did three out of four times they met last winter, but he didn't have the stamina of his fall-appearing rival.

Conger jumped into the lead at the start. The international race was the feature of the opening games of the "major league" track season, which saw Gus Moore Negro star of the Brooklyn Harriers, administer a crushing 50 to 60 yard beating to Leo Lermond of the Boston A. A., once America's leading distance runner, in a two mile handicap affair and Ira Singer, New York university freshman, romp away with the sprint series.

Bernie McCafferty, Holy Cross speedster, also staged a comeback, after a disappointing debut three weeks ago, to lead Eddie Roll of Newark, Milton Bandler, of N. Y. U., and Eddie Blake, of the Boston A. A., his one-time conqueror, to the tape in the special 500.

Company B Is Winner of One-Sided Contest

Company B, O. N. G., had little difficulty last night on the Armory court in handing the Victor club of Marion a 22 to 18 beating. The Company B team is setting a fast pace, having won nearly all of the games played this year. Lantz of the winners was high scorer last night with 18 points.

Company B will play Company E of Kenton Friday night at the Marion armory and will play at Mt. Victory on Saturday.

2-YEAR CHAMPION GIVES UP CROWN

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 29.—George Mandual of Cleveland is the new king of heavy-weight boxers at Ohio State university.

Mandual, a variety gragger, won the class A championship by defeating Milton Zeckhauser of Columbus. In the three-round main bout of the university's annual boxing carnival last night, Zeckhauser had held the title for two seasons.

In a bout that took four rounds to decide, Jack Lasser of Brooklyn defeated Mike Anselina of Cleveland, last year's lightweight ruler. Bernie Conley, of Cleveland, won the light-heavyweight crown by defeating George Reeves in three rounds, while John McEwen of New York, became middleweight champion by smashing out an easy victory over Tom Nankervis of Ely, Minn.

The bantamweight title went to Charles Berry, of Ashtabula who won a three round decision over Caravona of Cleveland in three rounds.

CENTRAL BASEBALL LEAGUE MAY DISBAND

Springfield Gives Up Efforts To Put Team in Circuit for Next Season.

By The Associated Press. SPRINGFIELD, O., Jan. 29.—Survival of the Central league seemed doubtful today with only four clubs remaining definitely in the circuit and two of them rumored to be seeking berths in other leagues.

Springfield business men last night gave up attempts to reorganize the club after the recent withdrawal of the franchise held by Joe Dunn. Con Daley, former umpire and owner of the Richmond, Ind., franchise, had asked support of business men to keep Springfield in the league, but two weeks of negotiations resulted in failure.

BRUIN PILOT PLAYS WHOLESALE SHIFT CLUB'S OUTFIELD

Cubs in Need of High-Outer Gardener for New Campaign.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The communiqué from Rogers Hornsby reveals that the Chicago Cubs common with the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals sorely in need of another high outfielder.

The new pilot of the Cubs reveals that he may try a wholesale shift in his outfield, the Hack Wilson from center to moving Kiki Cuyler from center to center.

This program leaves the field assignment open to Taylor, who played left field of last season, and Johnny Lard-Hitting rookie from Lehigh. Rags (Hos) Stephens for years the third member of Chicago's famous picket line slowed up considerably due to arm injuries and will be mainly as a pinch hitter.

Taylor batted only .283 last season. If Moore can better that he will land a regular berth.

Of course there is Vince E. the outfielder whose purchase Baltimore is said to have coughed from $30,000 to $40,000 for Barton's natural position, so believed he will be groomed to place the veteran Charley Grl the Cubs are unable to lure Bottomley away from the nals.

Arthur Brisbane's Today

out now, in the corporation reports showing what happened, profits down, gloomy change in earnings. And this will frighten those that do not realize conditions. You read now that the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company made $861 a share in 1930 against $29.04 in 1929.

In the same column you see that Devoe & Reynolds, who make paints, earned only $132,299 in 1930, against $1,065,615 the year before. Dozens of these sad statements will come out, and the foolish will say, "Everything is going to the dogs, I shall sell what I have." The fact is that things are coming back, having "gone to the dogs" last year.

If you are wise you will hold what you have. The healthy man has his little illness. Uncle Sam has just had his. The situation is described by Otto H. Kahn, accurately, thus: "In a few years we shall look back and find it hard to believe that the best American properties once sold at today's ridiculous prices."

What Is Gum-Dipping?

Gum-Dipping

is the Firestone trade name for that patented, basic process which makes Firestone Tires fundamentally different from all other tires. It is one of the reasons why Firestone, through many years, has easily been able to make good the statement: "Most miles per dollar." It is not something done to a tire after it is made. It is something very vital done before the tire is made.

To grasp

the full significance of Gum-Dipping, it is necessary to know something about how a tire is made and what goes on within a tire on the road. The body of the tire bears the principal strains in service. To it is attached the tread which provides traction and takes the wear of the road.

The usual tire

body is built up of layers or plies of cotton cords between which rubber has been forced. Rubber is incompressible. Hence the tire body practically does not expand or contract to meet road shocks. It flexes—that is, it changes form.

The strain of the flexing

tends to pull the plies apart and also to pull the cords themselves apart. A tire flexes about seven hundred times in a mile—which gives some idea of the strains and the friction which a tire must endure.

The great enemy

to tire life is internal friction. Years ago the fabric was square-woven—and the cotton cords sawed, one across another.

If cotton rubs

against cotton, the tire soon heats up and collapses. That is why the square-woven fabric tires were so short-lived. Then came the tires with parallel cords that could not saw each other. The best square-woven fabric tire would go scarcely four thousand miles. A poor cord tire will give

Eight pounds

of fine, pure rubber are, by the patented Gum-Dipping process, integrated into every one hundred pounds of cotton cords. This means three extra pounds of pure rubber added to an average set of tires—and added where it means most to the strength and the life of the tire. This extra rubber all goes into the cords of the tire—where you never see it.

Why

does Firestone put in this extra value? And what does it mean to you? It means just this. The performance—the extra value—has been shown for years on the road and in the laboratory. It has been proved that Gum-Dipping:

—increases the flexing life of a cotton cord by 58%.

—increases tire life by from 25% to over 40%, according to the severity of the service—the more severe the service, the higher the percentage.

at least twice that mileage. Making the cords parallel was a great advance—but it was only part of the battle against internal friction.

It was realized

that if the fibers of cotton in a cord could be insulated one from another, then a step-up in tire life could be had comparable to that made by shifting from square-woven fabric to parallel cords. That is what all tire makers have been striving for. That is what Firestone has achieved.

Every cord

used in Firestone Tires has been treated with a rubber solution which penetrates every cord and coats every fiber; and thus not only the cords, but also the very fibers within them are insulated.

Wherever you live—city or country—a fresh and complete stock of Firestone products is near-by.

Flashes of Life

NEW ORLEANS—Skill with a pen is one essential of a judge. Judge Sabath of Chicago grants lots of divorces. On a vacation he has risen to such a high level of marital trouble that lots of marital trouble is in the kitchen.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—Justice Morschauer of the state supreme court, who has been hearing about quarrels of married folks for 21 years, is happily married himself. This is the reason: he suddenly received something and declared a process in a trial to send 42 miles and a telegram home on the 12nd anniversary of his marriage.

WOOD, Calif.—Carmen, 18, of Chattanooga, is in the scope of her activities. As a painter, sculptor, dancer and singer, she is going into the show business. She came to Hollywood to do more writing, but they have screened her very well.

NEW YORK—The will of Samuel Shuff, furniture dealer, directs that a corporation be formed to run his estate. The widow and children are officers of the widow receiving a salary of $100 a week.

ATLANTA—It seems that one word to spell is "annum." In Harold H. Bixler of the Atlanta schools has made tests in eight states. Only 26 percent of ninth grade students spelled "annum" correctly and only 10 percent of twelfth grade.

In the Morning!

Just a pleasant-tasting candy (Cascarets) tonight and see how fine you feel next morning. You wake up with coating gone from your tongue. Mouth is sweet; eyes brighter; you feel like a different person. The most pleasant way to be rid of constipation is with candy Cascarets. They are made from cascara—a never-failing laxative—as any doctor will tell you—and a laxative that actually helps strengthen the bowel muscles. So the prompt, harmless relief Cascarets always bring is lasting! Their gentle, pleasant action makes them ideal for every people. Children love the delicious candy flavor.

COUPLE WED AFTER COURTSHIP BY MAIL

Never Met During Four Years of Romance by Correspondence.

DRY RIDGE, Ky., Jan. 28—Romance by mail has led to the marriage of a couple who never met during their four years of correspondence.

Walter Williams, 25, of Florence county, South Carolina, is now on his honeymoon with the former Miss Sylvia Clark, 19, of this city whom he first met last week.

Clark, Sam's postoffice department was not the only one in the affair, however. Four years ago, a soldier friend of the bride gave her name and address to Williams, saying she had little chance to go places, see things and enjoy life and thus would enjoy correspondence as a relief from the monotony of farm life.

Williams, a secret service man, had been transferred around the country so often he had had few opportunities to make friends. So he wrote to Miss Clark. She replied, and after that, there's nothing to relate except that they kept on writing.

Williams came to see her for the first time a week ago, and now they're honeymooning.

GREETING PLANES

Canine Refuses to Stay Away From Municipal Airport.

By International News Service.
NEWARK, N. J.—Nemo had a shrill bark and a vigorous tail wave for each incoming plane at the Municipal Airport here.

But winter came, and the air field attendants decided that his canine air-mindedness could not and should not stand the rigors of the airport winter.

They gave him to a farmer at Morristown, 25 miles away, to keep until spring. The farmer took the little fox terrier but he didn't keep him.

Nemo returned the next morning paws bleeding and weak from exhaustion. A similar stay at the home of Peter di Paolo, one of the attendants was equally abrupt.

Nemo has now been adopted officially by the airport. He will have all the privileges of an air field greeter, including the right to sleep on empty mail bags until another plane comes in.

SUNSHINE MELLOWS Heat Purifies

LUCKIES are always kind to your throat

The advice of your physician is: Keep out of doors, in the open air, breathe deeply; take plenty of exercise in the mellow sunshine, and have a periodic check-up on the health of your body.

Everyone knows that sunshine melloWS—that's why the "TOASTING" process includes the use of the Ultra Violet Rays. LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING"—that extra, secret process—removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing.

No More Hemorrhoids

All Pile Agony Ended Without Cutting or Salves

External treatments cannot permanently cure Piles. Nor does cutting remove the cause.

The cause is internal—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. The veins are lumpy—the blood walls are weak—the parts almost dead. To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles an internal medicine must be used to heal and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, a specialist, after years of study discovered a real internal Pile remedy. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients, with the marvelous record of success in 980 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own drug store.

Don't waste time on external remedies or think of the pain and expense of an operation until you have tried HEM-ROID. Henny & Cooper will supply you with a guarantee money-back if it does not end all Pile misery.—Adv.

Stomach Trouble Due to Acidity

Home Treatment Brings Swift Relief

Stomach troubles — indigestion, gas, sourness, etc., are, in most cases, caused by "too much acid in the stomach."

Get rid of the excess acid, and you get rid of Gas, Sourness, Heartburn, Bloating and all the distress of indigestion.

The best way to do this is to take a teaspoonful or three tablets of pure "Bismarck" Magnesia in a little water right after eating or whenever pain is felt. "Bismarck" Magnesia works quickly. It brings relief from every distressing symptom in less than a minute.

"Bismarck" Magnesia is the ideal safe, convenient, and inexpensive magnesia treatment for stomach ills. Henny & Cooper and druggists everywhere sell and recommend it, and its daily or as needed use keeps the stomach in fine condition, enabling it to do its work without the aid of soda or artificial digestants. —Adv.

LAST NIGHT at the THEATERS

"THE ROYAL RED" GOOD ENTERTAINMENT

A princess who would conduct her own affairs of heart, a queen whose love of country is her paramount emotion and a king who would rather play checkers than sit on a throne is the combination which makes "The Royal Red," the feature picture at the Marion, a most entertaining one. Lowell Sherman does a fine bit of acting as the king, and incidentally is the director. Mary Astor is the princess and Nance O'Neil is the queen. The lines throughout are clever and there isn't a dull moment in the entire story.

Preparations for the marriage of Princess Ann to the king of the kingdom go blithely on during the absence of the queen in America on business for her country, despite the fact that she would rather wed the king's secretary. The people take a hand in the government and an attempt is made to overthrow the war minister who has designs on becoming ruler of the country and Sherman, as king, does some clever diplomatic work in order to keep things running smoothly on his daughter's wedding day.

Edith Russell tells the adults a bedtime story. A new reel and an entertaining musical sketch complete the bill.

"THE NAUGHTY FLIRT" SHOWS AT OHIO

With Alice White in the starring role, "The Naughty Flirt," produced

by First National and Vitaphone, opened yesterday at the Ohio theater and will be shown again today.

Miss White captures the fancy of the audience with her characterization of the "whooper" girl who finally falls in love with her father's junior law partner, largely because he won't pay any attention to her.

The young barrister is played by Paul Page, a comparatively new man on the screen. Myrna Loy, Robert Agnew, Douglas Gilmore and George Irving have the other leads. Agnew will be remembered as the juvenile lead in silent pictures with such luminaries as Wallace Reid, Alice Joyce, Billie Burke, Norma Talmadge, Pola Negri and Gloria Swanson.

Another one of those burlesque melodramas, "An Ill Wind," is presented in a Vitaphone Variety. There are two of the Varieties, another being "Where There's a Will," Graham McNamee and his Universal Newsreel completes the program.

Daily Proverb—"The female mind is too practical to be methodical. Who would marry
a woman that punctuates her love letters?"

No matter what the calendar may show,
spring is on the way. The boys are again
playing marbles.

A girl out in Cherokee, California, found a $1,500 diamond in the hydraulic tailings of a gold mine there. Miners should be less careless with their diamonds.

Chicago's $21,000,000 postoffice building is
to be the largest of its kind in the world.
New York will probably hint that its unusual
size is necessitated by the need for quarters
for its army of defense against the assaults
of the city's gunmen.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., contributed $250,000
to the New York City chapter of the Red Cross for drought relief. It must be great to have the ability to donate to a worthy cause such as that and greater still to have
that which is not common to all men of great wealth—the willingness to give.

All the schools of Greece have been closed
as a result of the epidemic of influenza there.
Happily for Americans, the epidemic in this country has not reached anything like such proportions as it has attained in Europe, and late reports from our eastern seaboard, where
the greater percentage of cases have developed,
show that the situation is improving there.

The New York Times states that the metropolitan district of New York has 124 per cent.
of the entire country's wealth. No question of that, and if the process of buying up the country's public utilities and industrial plants
continues, it will be only a question of time
till New York has practically all of it.

The lower house of congress, by a vote of 105 to forty-three, defeated an effort to permit a lame duck congressman from Michigan
from drawing a $10,000 salary as assistant director of the Washington Bicentennial commission. Naturally! Such a proposal is in direct violation of political ethics. The patriot
simply must stand together, even in the case
of one who has suffered the misfortune of being underestimated by his constituents.

"I have never taken an American on a motor trip around Italy, neither have I run over a child, man or woman," is the language in which Premier Mussolini, of Italy, refutes the story of an American, reported to a Philadelphia gathering by Major General Smedley
D. Butler, that the premier is a hit-and-run driver and, while taking the American on a fourteen-day drive, had run down and killed
a child, ordering his chauffeur to drive on and re-marking: "What is one life in the affairs of state?" It's just possible that Smedley talks too much.

Signal Victory, Brilliantly Won.

Premier Ramsey MacDonald has achieved
another victory, and Britain's second Labor
government still holds. The house of commons supported its trades dispute bill, Wednesday night, despite the effort of Sir John Simon, leader of one wing of the Liberal party,
to break the alliance formed by David Lloyd George, leader of the other wing, and Premier MacDonald, to meet and repel the movement
to accomplish the government's overthrow, as the premier could hardly have done otherwise
than resign had either of last night's votes
gone against him.

Accepting London advice at their face value,
Lloyd George did not go to the aid of the Labor government for the reason that he loved
it more, but rather because he loved the Conservative party less. Incidentally, astute politician that he is, he may have felt that a manifestation of his ability to exercise the balance of power could not possibly work harm to his political future.

The trades dispute bill, pronounced by Sir
John Simon in his forceful speech against it
"thoroughly worthless," aroused one of the most bitterly-contested fights in recent British parliamentary history. It may not be "thoroughly worthless," as declared by Sir John,
but its phraseology is such that to Americans
it will probably prove somewhat incomprehensible. It defines as illegal a strike or lockout
"of which the primary object is an object
other than that of furthering purposes connected with the employment or non-employment or with the condition of labor of any person whether or not employed in the trade
or industry in which the strike or lockout
takes place."

But no matter what the worth, or lack of worth, of the bill, Wednesday night's votes on it and the probability that it will be supported
at its next reading, after coming from committee, will enable the government to approach
its third year in power with all the prestige
which goes with a signal victory, brilliantly won.

The Hungry Should Be Fed.

The belauding outbursts in the senate wing
of the capitol in Washington will hardly blind
the American people, at least they should not,
to the fact that there is merit in the contention
of John Burton Payne, active head of the American Red Cross, that acceptance by his organization of the proposed fund of $25,000,000, should such a fund be voted by congress, would destroy the future usefulness
of the Red Cross as an agency of relief in times of disaster and distress.

Testifying before the house appropriations committee hearing on the senate's appropriation for the Red Cross, Judge Payne revealed that that organization's central committee, of which he is chairman, had voted unanimously against acceptance.

Judge Payne held the senate's proposal
responsible for the failure of his organization
to raise within two weeks the $10,000,000 fund
it sought for the relief of drought sufferers,
led so to by the senate proposal, the natural
feeling being that there would be no occasion
for public contributions if the government was to supply the necessary funds. Should
the organization accept the proposed $25,000, 000 fund, the same condition would exist at any time in the future when the Red Cross might seek contributions from the public, and it would thus lose its effectiveness as an organization for voluntary relief of distress and suffering, which it has been from the time of its founding. It must be realized, of course,
that at the next call for relief, the senate
might not, and probably would not, be so anxious to vote the organization funds.

In disclosing to the house committee the conclusion of the Red Cross that it could not undertake to administer the fund as proposed
in the senate bill, Chairman Payne said: "It is utterly impracticable because it would mean
the duplication of efforts of long-standing organizations in urban centers," explaining that it would mean the setting-up of Red Cross agencies in between 300 and 400 cities. He quoted President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, as authority for the statement that there are 5,000,000 unemployed
in the country. If this be the case, he told the house committee, the taking over of the distribution of the $25,000,000 fund proposed by the senate would mean the setting-up of organizations by the Red Cross in metropolitan centers to dole out something like four dollars to each of the unemployed.

The situation, as it exists, may be said to be
the outcome of the differences between an element in the upper house of congress and the executive branch of the government. Had these differences not developed, the present
controversy very probably would not have arisen. As Judge Payne claims, the senate proposal undoubtedly has slowed up contributions to the $10,000,000 fund sought by the Red Cross to feed drought sufferers. It is possible, if not in fact probable, that the house
may be unwilling to support the senate proposal. If it does not, that source of relief to the sufferers will be denied. If it does, that relief will be long delayed by the organization of agencies to distribute it. Under these circumstances, the one avenue open to the work of quick and sure relief is immediate response to the appeal of the Red Cross for a $10,000,000 fund, which should imply all of us to give of our means according to our ability. The unfortunate in the drought-affected areas should not be permitted to suffer
as the result of differences between two branches of the federal government.

The Argentine government has reduced the price of bread from three and a half to two cents a pound in the public markets. The bakers down there must steal their flour and employ slave labor.

A Kindly, Gentle Spirit.

When on all sides and in all walks of life
deep regret is voiced over the death of a citizen, there must be some reason for such expressions of sorrow, some reason over and
beyond that which ordinarily impels regret
when the call of death is answered by a fellow-citizen.

The reason for the unusual manifestation of sorrow locally over the death of Morris Huhn is easy of determination. His life was gentle. His speech and manner alike were gentle and pleasing. His face bespoke the kindly spirit of the man. He was honest, straightforward and square-dealing in his relations with his fellow-men. But many have possessed these qualities without attracting the liking which was accorded him. He was charitable in thought and charitable in deed,
but many have been that, without being universally liked as was he.

No, it was the gentle, kindly soul of Morris Huhn which endeared him to all who knew him, and caused the honest, heartfelt grief
which his passing has entailed.

Given his choice of paying a fine of $500 or serving 200 days in jail for a liquor law violation, a San Francisco bootlegger came across
with the $500, explaining that 200 days in jail
would ruin his business. He's probably right in sizing up the situation as he did. The fellows who "can drink it or let it alone," would get mighty peeved at their bootlegger should he fail to show up for 200 days. In fact, they would quit him cold.

Lady Lucy Houston, of Jersey, England's
"Lady Bountiful," will finance the British defense of the Schneider seaplane speed trophy,
the government having decided not to do so.
In normal times, this might be well and good,
but with millions unemployed and great distress in England, the money to be expended in defense of the cup might be expended to better purpose. Still, there is this to be considered; it's Lady Houston's money—not ours.

Answering the question—"What has become of Chicago's twenty-eight public enemies?"— President Frank J. Loesch, of the Chicago
crime commission, a night or two ago responded over the air that two are dead, three serving penitentiary sentences, two sentenced to federal prison, three in jail, one in a prison
hospital the victim of an assassin, one has disappeared and is supposed to have been murdered, one is about to be deported, seven are awaiting trial and eight are fugitives. That's something of a clean-up. Chicago, manifestly,
is taking its crime situation seriously.

Editorial Opinion.

THE PEOPLE'S RESPONSIBILITY.
Now that the senate has approved one $25, 000,000 food dole and lowered the bars, the senate agriculture committee has immediately
responded with a favorable report on another.
This second measure authorizes the Farm
board to give away 20,000,000 bushels of wheat
to some agency authorized by the Presidency
to receive and distribute it as bread or flour.
The bill is not clear as to who will bear the expense of converting the wheat into flour or bread. But presumably, and very naturally,
it would be the Farm board.
The Farm board is probably ready and willing to give, sell or sink in the sea, millions of bushels of wheat bought by its subsidiaries in their attempt to stop the plunge of wheat
prices last summer and fall. But as this measure is billed as relief for the hungry, and not as relief for the Farm board, it can only be construed as the obvious next step for a government that is entering the field of private charity. As the Farm board's cooperatives also bought large quantities of cotton, to be held
for better prices, it is altogether possible that later proposals will suggest that the Farm
board donate the cotton in the form of free
clothing for those who need it.

As to the need for food, for clothing, for medicine, for other necessities of life by thousands of our stricken population, there is no question. Conditions exist in many communities that are frightful and tragic. And there is bitter irony in the fact that surplus
production and the nation's overflowing food
basket have contributed to the creation of some of the very conditions that now would be relieved—that adequate food is lacking while
surplus wheat is a drug on the market.
But is the senate following the right course?
In 1886 prolonged drought brought bitter suffering to farmers in Texas, and congress proceeded to remedy it by a relatively small appropriation for the distribution of free seed,
over and above the amount then annually authorized. President Cleveland's veto message of that proposal could as well apply now as
then. The sound principles on which his message was based are unchanged. Part of it bears repetition here:

"Though there has been some difference in statements concerning the extent of the people's needs in the localities thus affected, there seems to be no doubt that there has existed a condition calling for relief, and I am willing to believe that notwithstanding the aid already furnished a donation of seed grain to the farmers located in this region would enable them
to put in new crops would serve to avert a plight or return of an unfortunate condition."

"And yet I feel obliged to withhold my approval of the plans as proposed by this bill
to indulge a benevolent and charitable sentiment through the appropriation of public funds for that purpose."
"I can find no warrant for such an appropriation in the constitution, and I do not believe that the power and duty of the general
government should be extended to the relief
of individual suffering which is in no manner
properly related to the public service or benefit. A prevalent tendency to disregard the limited mission of this power and duty should,
I think, be steadfastly resisted to the end that
the lesson should be constantly enforced that though the people support the government, the government should not support the people."

"The friendliness and charity of our countrymen can always be relied upon to relieve their fellow citizens in misfortune. This has been repeatedly and quite lately demonstrated. Federal aid in such cases encourages the expectation of paternal care on the part of the government and weakens the sturdiness of our national character, while it prevents the indulgence among our people of that kindly sentiment and conduct which strengthens the bonds of a common brotherhood."
The failure of the proposed appropriation . . .
to meet the needs of our countrymen will not necessarily result in continued distress if the emergency is fully made known to the people of the country.—Washington Star.

Not So Queer, After All.

fect? More inexplicable that anybody fancied

Take Medicine as Ordered.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Most of us have heard of the man who was told by his physician to take a teaspoonful of medicine three times a day, a dose after each meal. The patient decided the doctor was in no hurry to cure him. Surely, he thought, if one teaspoonful would help, the entire bottle would be much better. What happened was common knowledge. He contributed to the welfare of the undertaker.

There are plenty of persons who make the same mistake. Of course not many of them
die, but they stray from the directions given by the doctor and do not prosper as they should.

The prescription given you by your physician
has been written with care, and after much study. The directions are definite, and it is important for you to do as instructed. If you are told to take your medicine before meals
that does not mean that three hours later will do as well.

The chemicals contained in your prescription are carefully compounded by the pharmacist. He carefully follows the directions in making up the medicine. It is only fair and sensible that you do as much in taking it.
Certain others at best if taken with the food.
It is for this reason that you are instructed to take the medicine either before or after meals.

Some drugs take hours to work. They may remain in the system for more than twenty-four hours. An additional dose may convert a curative remedy into a harmful poison. It is wise never to take your medicine more frequently than directed.

The careless handling of medicines has led to unpleasant and serious results. Bottles labeled "Poison," should be treated with respect. They should be kept far from the reach of children and careless adults.

Never take medicine in a dark room. Always carefully read the label before taking a dose of medicine. Secure as you feel, you may get the wrong bottle.
Never offer your medicine to some one else
whom you think is suffering from the same ailment. The drugs contained in your medicine may not be suited for another. They may do him more harm than good.

Medicines are usually prescribed in teaspoon doses. Teaspoons vary in size and shape. It is advisable that every family medicine chest be furnished with a graduated glass. With this glass you can accurately measure doses as prescribed. These glasses are inexpensive and can be obtained at any drug store.

Don't make a plaything of your medicine.
It can help you only when you take it as prescribed.

Haeckel, Science Popularizer.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

The theories of Darwin and the doctrine of evolution have produced many champions.
None exceeded Erasmus Haeckel, the German
zoologist, in demonstration of statement, vigor in expression, and wide-ranging if unsound generalization. Haeckel laid down certain biological principles, and used every device of argument, illustration and dialectic to demonstrate their universal application and incidence.

The great success of his scientific work
couched in popular form, stimulated his tendency to broad generalization. As he proceeded, by almost imperceptible gradations
from soundly-based science to untrustworthy philosophizing, only the expert zoologist could determine where science ends and speculation begins.

Ernst Heinrich Haeckel was born at Potsdam, Germany, February 15, 1834. He enjoyed an exceptionally thorough preparation for his life work. At Berlin and Wurzburg he studied under Johann Muller and Rudolf Virchow.
He attained the professional rank at the University of Jena at the age of twenty-eight.
For forty-seven years he held this post, retiring in 1909. He died August 9, 1919.

Haeckel came to his post at a significant moment in the history of zoology and of science in general, just after Darwin's "Origin
of Species" had been published.

He eagerly embraced the Darwinian theories
and became an ardent advocate of the idea of organic evolution. With a facile pen, he expressed himself frequently and fully upon the revolutionary, new ideas. He became the leading champion of Darwin in Germany, and in the course of time he became world-famous.
At the age of thirty-two he published his
"General Morphology," and two years later
the "History of Creation." Of these two books, which attracted wide attention, Merz says
that they deserve to have assigned to them a prominent place in the history of the scientific thought of the age.

Darwin himself recognized the value of Haeckel's service to the cause of the theory
of organic evolution, in the words: "Professor Haeckel has made a great beginning, and
shows us how classification will in the future
be treated."

Huxley, himself an eloquent champion of the Darwinian theories and a past master in the popularization of biological science, expressed himself as follows: "Whatever hesitation may not infrequently be felt by less daring minds in following Haeckel in many of his speculations, his attempt to systematize
the doctrine of evolution, and to exhibit its influence as the central thought of modern biology, cannot fail to have a far-reaching influence on the progress of science."

Haeckel's central thesis was the law of biogenesis. It asserted that the history of each individual is a recapitulation of the history of the race. He followed both Lamarck and Darwin, greatly to the enrichment of his contribution. His "Riddle of the Universe" enjoyed immense sales. Untrustworthy as a philosopher, Haeckel was a superb popularizer
of science.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Ben Butler Was Stanton's Choice.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

If Edwin M. Stanton had had his wish in 1861, General Benjamin F. Butler, of Massachusetts, instead of Andrew Johnson would have run for the vice presidency with Mr.
Lincoln that year, and subsequent history
what it is. Mr. Lincoln also wished General Butler to accept the nomination. Only the general's firm refusal prevented. Simon Cameron told the story not long after Mr. Lincoln's death. The president was inclined to trust to the political counsel of Mr. Stanton
at that time more than to any other member of his cabinet. It had been generally agreed among the president's friends that it would not do to run Hannibal Hamlin again, and they were looking for another candidate.
Stanton suggested Butler.

President Lincoln called Cameron to the White House and asked him to go to General
Butler and say to him that he came as a representative of Mr. Lincoln to ask him to accept the vice presidential nomination. Cameron accepted the mission and went to Fort Monroe, where Butler was then in command.
As soon as he had laid the matter before him,
General Butler met the proposition with a prompt and emphatic "no."

"Say to the president," said he, "that I regard the invitation to be a candidate with him as a very great honor, but I have always felt that it was a discreditable thing to leave the army and run for civil office, and
just now I think that I owe the far more
use to the country than the military service."
Of course he did not know—could not have known—that he was by that act throwing away his chance to stand in the line of presidents. There is an unsupported story that he wrote Lincoln jokingly that he would not run for the vice presidency with him unless he would agree to die or resign within three months after his inauguration.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, Jan. 29.—Broadway slang of the moment is ancient verbiage to the ten thousand man as well as many of the underworld lads who live by their wits. Odd phrases are popped out in musical comedy and swing
dip to dip among wise crackers are of a quarter century old.

Incidentally, the term "wise crack" was coined by Chico Sale, the actor. Much money was current too in the hobo jungles and among race track touts. It seeps up from the bogs and gradually flowers in the exclusive drawing rooms.

"The Main Stem" was heard in tramp camps
as early as 1900 and is mentioned in a feature story in the Sunday Herald of that time. Reg-gars spawm may be the terms in effort to be picturesque yet conceal. The main stem was as now, the term for a city's chief thoroughfare.

Mark is a word fattened by the profane
easy. Grifters with circuses would say it asides: "Nix cracking to the mark." They were saying: "Do not talk so the sucker can hear." Carnival showmen later on adopted
pig-latin which a few years ago spanned Broadway's patter.

On the carnival, too, the meaning would be
obscured by making "nix cracking" to sound
"nixy acknary" to bewilder the yap or ap-
pay. Old-time shell workers are able to trace
pig-latin which a few years ago spanned
Broadway's patter.

Broadway about twelve years ago discovered women were "broads." Yet the circus folk called them by that term during the creaking travail of wagon shows. Companary terms were "broad" and "broad." Later signifying dead-heads. Still later "Annie Oakleys" because pierced with bullet holes.

Thus urbane Broadway froths with the jokelisms at which it laughs. The Forty Niners called a suit of clothes "a set of threads" but used in a 1930 revue it conveys sophisticates. Many acts, too, that were on the Rialto were outmoded in the tent shows
years ago.

The late Frank Bacon elaborated his skit
"Lightnin'" with which he knocked about in the kerosene-lighted town halls for twenty years, into a play that ran on Broadway three years.

BILLS DRAWN TO AID OHIO NEEDY

Legislature Gets Proposal for Committee Meeting with Governor.

By The Associated Press.
COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 29.—Two measures, a resolution and a bill, designed to aid the unemployed and drouth sufferers in Ohio was pending before the Ohio senate today.

The resolution was submitted by Senator Roy J. Gillen, Republican of Jackson county, providing for appointment of a legislative committee to confer with Governor George White with respect to relief measures and report recommendations within 10 days.

The Gillen resolution requested that the committee ascertain as far as possible the extent of the distress and the relief required as a result of the chaotic employment situation and the drouth and also to obtain the governor's specific recommendations on the problems of accepting immediately the federal aid for highway construction was presented by Minority Leader D. H. De Armond, Democrat, of Hamilton, in the senate. The house at the same time approved and sent to Governor White for his signature an emergency measure providing $6,000,000 immediately for highway construction.

It was pointed out that employment can be provided many persons from the federal and state highway funds which are made ready under the two measures.

Senator Joseph N. Ackerman (R) of Cleveland, introduced a bill to set up a state boxing commission of three members, each to serve three years and to be paid $4,500 each annually for their services. They would be empowered to regulate all boxing, sparring and wrestling contests in Ohio.

A bill to legalize Sunday movie, baseball games and other exhibitions and contests was presented by Senator L. L. Marshall, Republican of Cleveland. The measure would prohibit forenoon exhibitions but would allow the displays on Sunday afternoon and night.

Rev. S. F. Porter preached a revival sermon on "Christ Is Coming Again," last night at Emmanuel Baptist church. Services will continue at the church each night except Saturday for several weeks.

In his sermon he quoted Christ as saying: "But as the days of Noah were, so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be." He said in part: "Man today is wallowing in the filthy abominations of the devil, flesh and the world; taking very little heed to the warning of God, they which do such things are worthy of death. When man rejects the warning of God, and mocks the gospel messenger, he sends beyond the outstretched hand of blessing into the pit of the accursed. So long as man continues in his rebellion against the righteous warnings of God, just so long shall he continue to suffer the results of his sin."

Tonight Rev. Porter will speak on "A Hidden Message." Services begin at 7:30.

deep regret which this government feels at the reflections against the United States in the unauthorized address of Major General Snedley D. Butler, United States marine corps, at Philadelphia on January 19.

"The sincere regrets of this government are extended to Mr. Mussolini and to the Italian people for this discourteous and unwarranted utterance by a commissioned officer of this government on active duty.

"Accept, excellency, the renewed assurance of my highest consideration."

(Signed)
"Henry L. Stimson,

"Royal Italian Ambassador."

The court martial order followed receipt of a letter from Butler to Secretary Adams in which he gave his version of his speech, given in Philadelphia.

Arrest Ordered
Butler's commander, Major General Fuller, immediately called the former and ordered him to place himself under arrest. He was also told to confine himself to his barracks at Quantico, Va., Butler commands the marine post there.

The public charge against Butler was not made public, nor was his letter. He has had to explain other speeches before to the navy secretary, but did so satisfactorily. The general returned to his Quantico post after another speech in Philadelphia last night.

railing and a slipknot placed around Bannon's neck. He was pushed off the rail and dropped about 20 feet.

The mob dispersed. No shots were fired and, save for the sheriff and his deputy being tied up, no one else was bothered.

Sheriff Thompson, who lives two blocks from the jail, was seized when he came to investigate the noise of the mob breaking down the doors.

Young Bannon was brought to the McKenzie county jail, several days ago from the Williams county jail at Williston, N. D., where he had been held for safekeeping since his arrest. He and his father were to have been arraigned here tomorrow on first degree murder charges.

All Masked
Officials estimated that 80 men were in the mob. All wore masks and some were armed. They gathered quietly at the jail, and then, using heavy timbers, battered down the front door of the place.

Leaders of the mob argued with Deputy Hallan for some time in an endeavor to get keys for the cells. Hallan, however, refused to say where they were and the leaders, however, and using the timbers again, smashed down a steel door to reach young Bannon.

Confessed by Charles Bannon early in December that he had slain Mr. and Mrs. Haven and their four children climaxed one of the most sensational crimes in North Dakota's history.

Bannon had been employed on the Haven farm near Schafer, last February. He held authorities that after a quarrel, he shot and killed first one, and then another of the Havens and buried their remains in a barn on the place.

In the original suit municipal court ordered the school board to pay Peach $590.65, the amount allegedly owed him by the Greenfield company. The school board allegedly was creditor to the bus body company for an amount larger than $590.65 bill, and as a result was made a garnishee.

MAC DONALD'S POWER CERTAIN UNTIL APRIL

Minister Gets Confidence Vote on Trade Act; Budget Bill Next Obstacle.

By The Associated Press.
LONDON, Jan. 29.—Safely past the most formidable obstacle placed in months, Premier Ramsay MacDonald's labor government today appeared assured of power at least until presentation of the new budget in April.

The labor members, singing Auld Lang Syne, ranged into the government lobby of the commons just before midnight last night and repulsed with a 27 majority a conservative attack on the trades dispute act, up for its second reading. The vote was 275 to 250. Sir John Simon and several fellow liberals voting with the Tories. A government defeat would have meant resignation.

After the members flocked back into the house from the division chamber the figures were announced in a scene of intense excitement. The government advocates mounted their benches cheering, shouting, and waving papers and handkerchiefs.

The critical division was preceded by a seething attack of Winston Churchill, former chancellor and Conservative stalwart, against Premier MacDonald.

He turned his sarcasm on the apparent alliance between Mr. MacDonald and David Lloyd George, liberal leader.

The bill's intention is to better the status of the trade unionists, whose right of strike was curtailed by the act of 1927 which followed the general strike of 1926. Its enemies have claimed that it would make legal a repetition of the 1926 strikes.

7 Hours in Bed and Not 7 Minutes Sleep!

The Toll Acidity Takes

When you go to bed dog-tired and still can't sleep and you rise in the morning more tired than when you went to bed, it's sign you're "acid." Excess acid, formed in the stomach as a result of your unnatural eating habits, causes acid indigestion with gas, sourness and burning and sets up poisonous putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal which saps your strength and vitality and so taxes your nerves that you can't sleep at night or work efficiently during the day.

Magnesia Oxids, developed in Germany by a famous, 100-year-old pharmaceutical house, corrects acidity in the right way. Upon contact with the acid in the stomach, Magnesia Oxids generate nascent, or active, oxygen. The "live" oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, checks putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal and stimulates the activities of the intestinal walls which aids the natural movement of the

A THRILLING MYSTERY

Interference

JIMMIE HASEWELL was tired. He had spent the whole day in the law courts and was sure that he was winning the cause on which he was engaged. As he turned toward his chambers in the young man's office, he was asking himself what chance there was that the case would be finished the next day. The prospect that the case might have to be continued or begun all over again was no wonder that his anxiety increased when, upon entering his chambers, he found that a lady and a man were waiting to see him.

"Who are they?" he asked.

"They said you wouldn't know their names. They came from Mr. Donald Wade."

"You're too amiable to refuse," said Jimmie, looking at the man who followed her. He was a young man with dark hair, and asked the visitors to be shown into his study.

"I'm Evelyn Blake. We don't want to trouble you, but we have a case to bring before you."

"I'm Mr. Donald Wade. He is a young man with dark hair, and asked the visitors to be shown into his study."

Interference to draw from them.

"One should not rely too strongly on inferences," Jimmie countered. "For often there are several explanations for the little things we observe. For instance I might suggest that you have just been having a birthday, but I may be entirely mistaken."

"The lovers exchanged a look of surprise. Why do you say that?" asked the man.

"Your gloves are new, your ties are new, your cuff-links have the peculiar brightness of the jeweler's shop. My all sorts of new things sometimes, but several new things together suggest a celebration."

"I gave him the cuff-links," said Evelyn, the rosy color showing again on her cheeks.

"Today is my birthday," declared Duckworth. "It proves that Donald Wade was right to send us to you."

"Yes," added the girl. "After that, Mr. Hasewell, you cannot refuse May I tell you?"

He bowed and she began her story. He watched her attentively. She was not exactly beautiful, but her features were good and there was considerable firmness in her small mouth. She was undoubtedly a girl who would persevere with whatever she undertook. Her air and determination would not daunt her. Yet there was anxiety in her tone though what she had to say seemed at first hardly to justify it.

"My sister and I live with our aunt, Miss Queridling. She is a wonderful woman with a very strong nature. She has great determination and is entirely indifferent to the opinions of other people. Consequently she is not exactly popular, though she is really very kind and does a great deal of good. Perhaps she has enemies. Anyway she has been receiving threatening letters, anonymous ones of course. They are what we are worrying about."

"What exactly do you mean by threatening letters?" asked Jimmie.

"At first they were vague," answered the girl. "They said that she was to be punished for what she had done. Then they grew more definite and said that she was to be killed."

Her voice dropped as she repeated the terrible words. It seemed that they had undoubtedly shaken her.

"For what she had done?" echoed Jimmie. "What has she done?"

"Nothing—I mean it just said that—as though she had wronged somebody."

"There was no demand for money? No suggestion of exposure of revealing secrets, unless payment was made?"

"No. Nothing like that. Have you the letters with you?"

"No. My aunt has them. How does she regard them?"

"She does not take them seriously. But we—my sister and I—feel that a real danger threatens her and she ought to be protected."

"What have you done about it?" inquired Jimmie.

"We have been to the police, although Aunt Annabelle would not at first allow us to do that. Of course we have also consulted our friends, Donald Wade and others. It was Donald who told me to come to you."

"How long has your aunt been getting these letters?"

"For two months," said Evelyn. "They come at intervals of a week or 10 days. There have been six altogether up to now."

"I gave him the cuff-links," said Evelyn, the rosy color showing again on her cheeks.

has been receiving threatening letters, anonymous ones of course. They are what we are worrying about."

"What exactly do you mean by threatening letters?" asked Jimmie.

"At first they were vague," answered the girl. "They said that she was to be punished for what she had done. Then they grew more definite and said that she was to be killed."

Her voice dropped as she repeated the terrible words. It seemed that they had undoubtedly shaken her.

"For what she had done?" echoed Jimmie. "What has she done?"

"Nothing—I mean it just said that—as though she had wronged somebody."

"There was no demand for money? No suggestion of exposure of revealing secrets, unless payment was made?"

"No. Nothing like that. Have you the letters with you?"

"No. My aunt has them. How does she regard them?"

"She does not take them seriously. But we—my sister and I—feel that a real danger threatens her and she ought to be protected."

"What have you done about it?" inquired Jimmie.

"We have been to the police, although Aunt Annabelle would not at first allow us to do that. Of course we have also consulted our friends, Donald Wade and others. It was Donald who told me to come to you."

"How long has your aunt been getting these letters?"

"For two months," said Evelyn. "They come at intervals of a week or 10 days. There have been six altogether up to now."

"I gave him the cuff-links," said Evelyn, the rosy color showing again on her cheeks.

"Today is my birthday," declared Duckworth. "It proves that Donald Wade was right to send us to you."

"Yes," added the girl. "After that, Mr. Hasewell, you cannot refuse May I tell you?"

He bowed and she began her story. He watched her attentively. She was not exactly beautiful, but her features were good and there was considerable firmness in her small mouth. She was undoubtedly a girl who would persevere with whatever she undertook. Her air and determination would not daunt her. Yet there was anxiety in her tone though what she had to say seemed at first hardly to justify it.

"My sister and I live with our aunt, Miss Queridling. She is a wonderful woman with a very strong nature. She has great determination and is entirely indifferent to the opinions of other people. Consequently she is not exactly popular, though she is really very kind and does a great deal of good. Perhaps she has enemies. Anyway she

the present. They are printed in tough characters and are all posted in the neighborhood, though apparently at different post-offices or post-boxes."

"Have the police no suspicion at all as to who sends them?"

"At first they thought they might come from a young fellow called Joe Allen. He was an undergardener whom my aunt discharged shortly before she began to receive them. He had been heard in the village to say he would get even with her. But he denies everything, and nothing can be proved."

"Why was he discharged?"

"Had he any reason for resentment?"

"Well," said the girl and the color came again to her cheeks. "He might think he had. My aunt caught him love-making with one of the maids, and that is a thing she will not allow."

"Does not approve of love-making?" asked Jimmie with a smile, as he looked from one of them to the other.

"No," answered Evelyn, she does not."

"She certainly does not approve of me, if you mean that," added Duckworth.

"That is bad luck," said Jimmie. "I cannot quite see why Donald sent you to me. What can I do?"

"He thought," said Duckworth, "that you would be able to suggest some way in which the man who wrote them could be caught before he does what he threatens to do."

"The man or the woman, I suppose?" Women are perhaps more fond of sending anonymous letters than men," said Jimmie, "though insinuations rather than threats of violence are generally their line."

"They might of course come from a woman," agreed Duckworth. "We had not thought of that."

"Have there been other discharged servants? Or tenants or neighbors with real or fancied grievances?"

"There may have been," said the girl, "but none that we can see real grounds for suspecting."

"It seems to me," Jimmie said slowly, "that your aunt is taking the wisest view of the matter. Certainly the police should endeavor to find out who sends the letters, and if they continue to come I expect they will succeed. Otherwise it is best to ignore them."

"You do not think my aunt is really in danger?"

"No," he smiled in reply. "I do not think she is. Such letters are generally sent by some one who wants to frighten, but is afraid to strike. That is the only inference I can suggest. A murderer does not spread unnecessary clues. He makes his plans in secret and he strikes without warning. If Joe Allen or any one like him really meant to injure your aunt why tell her so beforehand?"

"Then you think," said Duckworth, "that Miss Queridling has nothing to fear and Miss Blake need not worry?"

"Let them take reasonable precautions if they like, but trust the police and certainly not worry."

"I am glad I came," murmured the girl in a tone of relief. "Donald said I must, but I quite see what you mean. I will tell Marjorie she is my sister—and we won't let it frighten us any more."

"That is very sensible of you. Hand the letters to the police but otherwise ignore them. Your unknown enemy will
